15. Computing Resources

Every graduate student has a secure, password-protected connection to the Vanderbilt University central computer network, which offers access to e-mail, internet, and the World Wide Web. For further information, students should contact the Vanderbilt Information Technology (IT) office. Computing support can be obtained from the Microcomputer Lab.