Swarna Gunaratne completed her graduate studies with an MA in Economics from Vanderbilt University USA (1993). She holds a Postgraduate Diploma in Economic Development (1987) and a Bachelor of Commerce Degree from University of Colombo (1983).

Swarna started her career as an Assistant Lecturer at the University of Colombo and worked about two years prior to joining the Central Bank of Sri Lanka as an Economist in 1986. She worked in the Economic Research Department (ERD) of the Bank in various capacities for about 23 years and was appointed as the Director of Economic Research in 2012. She directed the ERD towards achieving the Central Bank’s core objective of Economic and Price stability while giving policy recommendations to achieve overall macroeconomic stability of the country. In fulfilling these objectives, Swarna served as a member in various Central Bank committees such as Monetary Policy Committee, Monetary Operations Committee, Financial Stability Committee and Risk Management Committee. In 2015, she was appointed as an Alternate Executive Director in the International Monetary Fund to represent the constituency of India, Sri Lanka, Bangladesh and Bhutan. There are several publications to her credit in the fields of Monetary Policy and the Financial Sector Policies.
