What role do Muslim Americans play in public discourse? Why do white evangelicals overwhelmingly support Donald Trump and Black Protestants support Joe Biden? What is QAnon, and what does it tell us about religion and politics in 2020? How and why does religion matter in the 2020 U.S. presidential election?

JOIN US FOR AN ONLINE ROUNDTABLE of leading scholars on religion and politics in the United States.

Engage with our specialists in a discussion of religion as it intersects with important themes in the 2020 election, including immigration, race, gender, sexuality, and nationalism.

Panel participants:
- Natalie Avalos (The University of Colorado Boulder)
- Sophie Bjork-James (Vanderbilt University)
- Alison Collis Greene (Emory University)
- Edward E. Curtis IV (The Indiana University School of Liberal Arts at IUPUI)
- Lerone Martin (John C. Danforth Center at Washington University in St. Louis)

Wednesday
OCT 14 2020
4:00 p.m. – 5:30 p.m.

REGISTER HERE.

“Religion and the 2020 Election: Reflecting Back and Looking Forward”

Moderated by Adeana McNicholl (Vanderbilt University)